MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 26—Provision for advertising Alabama resources to the nation, by allowing courts of county commissioners and boards of revenues to participate in the "Greater Alabama" campaign, now underway, is included in a bill introduced in the lower house of the Alabama legislature this morning.

The measure was introduced by Representative Hatter, of Greene.

A bill was introduced by Ashcraft, of Lauderdale, providing that county convicts shall be turned over to the state board of supervisors for labor.

Appropriation of $100,000 for new buildings for the state building school for girls at Birmingham and to further provide funds for maintenance of the school at the rate of $30 allowance a month for each girl is provided in a bill of Representative Howze, of Jefferson.

Changes in the code, made by the recess committee, to be printed and submitted to the legislature was offered in a resolution by E. C. Glover, of Henry.

Representative Long, of Butler, favored the resolution but others objected on their rounds of the "enormous detail and expense," while Speaker Merrill, chairman of the committee, declared he believed that actions of the recess body could be trusted, assuring the members that no radical changes were included in the provisions.

In the senate a letter from Director Frank P. Hines, of the war veterans bureau, in regard to the Tuskegee hospital situation, was read. Director Hines said that the question of the white or negro personnel at the hospital was receiving his close attention and he hoped for a satisfactory settlement.

Authority would be given the Alabama public service commission to regulate motor vehicle transportation by a bill introduced by Senator Overton, of Randolph.

Bills providing maintenance of kindergartens in the state, a county court in Morgan county, provisions for the issuance of bonds by municipalities, appropriations for the training school for girls in Birmingham, permission of fraternal orders in the state, consolidating their insurance companies, were all introduced in the senate.

Senator Teasley, of Montgomery, introduced a measure providing that all cities of more than 50,000 shall have a commission form of government.

Bills were introduced in the senate providing for the election of county superintendents of education in Butler, Morgan and Blount counties by popular vote.

The administration revenue bill, battle scarred from many stormy sessions in the lower house, had its first reading in the senate this morning and was referred to the committee on finance and taxation.

Senator Walter Brower, of Birmingham, served notice this morning that his bill providing for incorporation of the T. C. I. and Railway company to the city of Birmingham would be attempted to be taken off the adverse calendar.

Senator Middleton, this morning, introduced a bill reducing the board of registrars to three members in counties of less than 50,000 population.

STEPS TAKEN FOR SHORTER WORK DAY

Gary And Associates In Conference To Plan For 8 Hour Shift

DATE OF CHANGE STILL IS UNKNOWN

Thousands Of Men To Be Needed When The Shift Is Abandoned

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 26—Another step toward elimination of the 12 hour day in the United States steel industry was taken today when heads of manufacturing subsidiaries of the United States steel corporation met with Albert H. Gary to consider the matter.

It was said that the conferences will probably last several days.

The question of when the long shift would be totally eliminated has been raised many times since President Harding several weeks ago, made public correspondence with the American Iron and Steel Institute, in which a pledge was given to eliminate the 12 hour day as soon as possible.

In announcing yesterday the conference beginning today, Mr. Gary characterized as "somebody's guess" reports from Pittsburgh that the long day would be abolished by the end of the year. Today's meeting, as announced by Mr. Gary, was called for the consideration of "the ways and means of putting into effect the elimination at the earliest possible moment of the 12 hour day which involves facts and figures more or less complicated."

One matter, which it was understood would be discussed today, was means of procuring 32,500 additional workers, who it is estimated will be needed when the long shift is eliminated. According to Mr. Gary 65,000 of the steel corporation's 260,000 employees, at present are working 12 hours a day.

A readjustment of wages also was understood to be up for consideration. Unskilled labor, now working 12 hours a day, received 40 cents an hour. On the 12 hour basis, corporation officials believe, this constitutes adequate pay, but if the hours are shortened, the workers would receive only $3.20 a day at the present hourly rate.

Mr. Gary, sometime ago, estimated elimination of the 12 hour day probably would add 15 per cent to the cost of production.

DATE POSTPONED

Daily Asked By Woman To Aid Her In Search For Brother, Lost Second Time

The Daily today was requested by Mrs. H. J. Tippit, of Nashville to aid her in the search for her brother, Andrew Jackson Jordan.

The two were separated when Mrs. Tippit was 2 years old, at which time, their parents, having died, the sister was sent to the Methodist Orphanage at Selma, Ala., in which state the family were living, and the brother was taken by an uncle, J. W. McHaney, of Talladega. Later the sister was taken from the orphanage by S. B. Green and his wife of Francisco, Ala.

A few years ago, when the sister was 19, the brother located her, made himself known and for several years as devoted as a brother could be. He went to see her, gave her presents and showed in every possible way a natural brotherly devotion. At the time he was living in Birmingham, his address being 5344 Third avenue, N. E. Eighteen months ago, the sister came to Nashville to live. She married, her husband being an employee of the Atlantic Ice and Coal Company of city. Soon after coming to Nashville she received the following letter, written from her brother in Birmingham.

"SECOND VALLEY'S" CROPS ARE SPLENDID

Government Inspector Says Cotton Area In Good Shape

TRACT EXTENDS TO STATE LINE

First Valley Is Behind The Second, Opinion Of Federal Agent

Local supporters of the contention that the so called "Second Tennessee Valley" section in Morgan County surpasses the "First Tennessee Valley" section in richness of soil and general productivity, are saying the proverbial "I told you so," following an opinion given by an United States government land inspector, who recently went through this second valley with H. R. Summer, the well known abstract man.

Mr. Summer was telling about the "glories of the section which begins at Gandy's Cove, near Falkville, and extends west, past Mount Hope, past Russellville and on to the Mississippi line."

Judge L. P. Troup said this strip of second valley land was just a mile wide at Gandy's Cove and spread out like a fan until at the Mississippi line the valley was 25 miles wide.

Judge Troup calls this valley section this side of Lawrence County, in Morgan "the Danville-Oakville country." The Judge also said it was called the "Second Tennessee Valley."

Weight is given to the government's man's opinion of the section in question because he is supposed to be disinterested and because he has been all over the farm lands of Alabama, according to Mr. Summer.

The official stated to Mr. Summer as they rode through the valley in question on Tuesday, that "no where in Alabama have I seen such land and such crops."

Mr. Summer said he and his traveling companion did not see just "spots of good crops here and there" but that "hundreds of acres of cotton appeared which was as high as the plow handles."

Mr. Summer declared that the government official said that the corn along the way "looked like a cane break," it was so high and thick.

The government man said again and again that the crops and the land in the "second valley" were the best he had seen anywhere in the state.

It was stated by more than one at the court house today, that the "first" valley of the Tennessee here, while it was a great farming section was "not so good" as the second valley which begins near Falkville and extends to the Mississippi Valley.

Mr. Summer expressed it as his opinion that if a railroad was built through this valley country as is now contemplated, from Russellville via Moulton, Mount Hope and this community, the "second valley" would be the best farming section of country to be found anywhere.

County Court Will Convene August 13

"Long enough," said Judge Lowe to enable me to take up the cases of judgment by default, and the matter of executing writs of inquiry.

"We will take all the time needed to take up the entire civil docket, also, and the criminal docket will be taken up."

Judge Lowe stated that the court night continue for the entire week beginning August 13, but that it is the business of the court could be concluded earlier, court would adjourn as quick as the docket was clear.

Eulos Sullivan Makes Daring Get Away As His Guards Rest

MONEY OFFERED FOR RE-CAPTURE

Slayer Of An Ex-Deputy U. S. Marshal Still At Large Today

(By Associated Press)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 26—Eulos Sullivan, Oklahoma outlaw, who shot and killed former deputy United States Marshal J. Walter Casey at Harrison, two weeks ago, escaped from three officers who were bringing him to the penitentiary to await execution, at 1:40 a. m. today at Kansas City.

Sullivan was convicted of Casey's murder at Harrison last week and Tuesday was sentenced to be electrocuted September 21.

When he escaped, Sullivan was handcuffed and shackled. Poses were at once formed at Kearney and Kansas and were reported on Sullivan's trail using bloodhounds.

Rewards for Sullivan's capture, dead or alive, have been offered. Sullivan escaped while the officers, who had him in custody, were sleeping at the Kinsett depot, through the train.

The officers checked him to a bench and, according to the story received here, were said to have fallen asleep. Sullivan was supposed to have gone to sleep. Sullivan was supposed to have had several companions when the officers discovered he was missing. The depot agent said he had heard chains clanking past the depot window half an hour before the escape was discovered, but supposed them to be on a male or a cow.

Sullivan killed Casey as the latter was placing him in the Harrison jail after Sullivan had saved his way out. He was awaiting trial for highway robbery at the time of the escape and killing.

A GLIMMER OF HOPE FROM EUROPE.

It has been given out on excellent authority that the Fatherland will give up its present attitude in the "under certain conditions." Whether the French agree at once to meet those certain conditions or not, still it appears that the door for peace is opening some, at least. The mere fact that there is a discussion on the subject of the Germans giving up their resistance in the Ruhr carries some assurances with it—some hope of peace in Europe.

If the talk of a change in sentiment in the Ruhr will but continue long enough deeds are apt to result.

In the mean time the people of the Fatherland are getting it through their heads that the world is not going to support them in their efforts to evade and beat their debts.

The world was not prepared, even if the Germans did seem to persuade themselves to think so, to wink for a minute at the actions of German leaders, who proposed to evade payment of the world war indemnity.

It might have been a surprise to the Germans, but to no other people when such countries as America failed to resent the French invasion of Germany.

The world felt that outside of the rights and wrongs of the whole ugly business that certain selfish interests were being served in Germany by all that inflation of the German currency, and refused to enthuse over the cries that French soldiers had invaded the Ruhr. It is generally believed the Germans will have to give in and give up and finally pay their just and honest debts. It will be impossible for the French to collect the entire amount awarded them by the Versailles treaty just as it is always impossible for a credit to get a pretty good indemnity, or hold on to the Ruhr, as long as time lasts, or until they are forced to turn that rich valley back to the Fatherland.

RECORDS SHOW PRESENT "OFFERINGS" IN BOOZE TRADE AS FILTHY POISONS.

One of the most remarkable proofs of the doctrine that the desire is father of the belief is the faith shown by the patrons of the boot-leggers in his integrity.

The thirsty soul argues that other bootleggers may poison their customers, but that his individual dealer will sell him the "pure stuff." Investigations now in progress under the direction of the federal government show that few if any bootleggers can furnish pure liquor to their patrons, even if they desired to do so. The average bootlegger is not intelligent enough to secure good whiskey, as scarce as real whiskey has now become. R. A. Haynes federal prohibition commissioner declares in this connection:

An infinitesimal fraction of bootleg is real liquor, but it is not old liquor. Liquor represented by bootleggers as having been smuggled in, and supposed by their customers to be absolutely genuine, more often than not is made in the United States by redistilling denatured alcohol, or from other moonshine, and bottled under labels printed in America to resemble those of foreign brands. Enforcement agents in several cities, notably one in New York, another in Michigan, and a third in New Jersey, have found printing plants or distributing centers doing an immense trade in fake labels and counterfeit revenue stamps. Almost every brand of label known in the United States, whether of domestic or foreign make, has been imitated or sold by the tens of thousands in these plants.

Five classes of whiskey are spoken of by Mr. Haynes. He puts genuine liquors, properly aged, as made prior to the passage of the 18th amendment in this country, or more recently, in foreign countries in class one. "Concoctions containing some pure liquor diluted in any one of a score of ways is described in class 2. This kind of booze in the illegal trade is described as small in amount. In class three are placed the "synthetic" liquors, which contain many injurious substances and the alcohol used is diluted and colored, and usually flavored so as to deceive those who have grown accustomed to certain of the old brands of whiskey. "Moonshine" a new liquor distilled from "any vegetable substance that can be fermented," takes fourth place. In speaking of "moonshine" Mr. Haynes says:

"Moonshine liquor is rarely harmless. On the other hand, it is not often virulent poison. Generally, it is a filthy beverage, the continued use of which is likely to lead to impaired health and premature death.

In theory, the process of manufacturing moonshine is harmless enough. It is the same process as that by which pure whiskey is made but it must be carried on, for the sake of concealment, in places where the essentials of cleanliness are not obtainable. Air, sunlight and pure water cannot be had in the dark basements, stables, holes in the ground, cellars and attics—nor even in the remote thickets—where moonshine is made.

The average moonshiner, interested only in immediate profits, is not careful to apply even such poor measures of cleanliness as are at hand. Frequently, his mash is made of decayed fruits and vegetables, sometimes of fermenting scraps from the garbage cans of the cities. One moonshiner on trial actually made the defense that the mash found at his still was not mash, but swill for hogs. It was a fairly good defense. Few could have told the difference.

The fermenting mixture attracts flies, bugs and all kinds of insects. Snakes, mice, rats and even cats have been found in the vats. They are not deliberately put there, of course; they fell in and were drowned, and the moonshiner either did not know it at the time or did not take the trouble to remove them.

The fifth class of booze is made from "denatured alcohol." The many deaths reported from these kinds of spirits mark them very poison.

A youngster visiting his indulgent aunt partook heartily of cake and preserves. When asked if he hadn't had all that was good for him, he replied that he didn't know.
"But what do you think?"

"Well, you're a funny boy," said his aunt. "When will you know?"
"In half an hour."
"And how will you know?"

"Because," instantly replied the youngster, with her eyes flashing, "afterward she hit me."

WOMAN AND TWO MEN ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Monday afternoon Sheriff Gilbert and his deputies arrested Velma McCune and her uncle, Morris Agner, on a charge of assault to murder. Adam McCune, the woman's husband, was arrested on a vagrancy charge, all three being in the county jail, as a result of the woman's month-old baby girl being found in some bushes near Brown's Ferry. When arrested the woman admitted the child was hers and claimed that she and her uncle laid the baby down and couldn't find it afterwards.

The baby's cries attracted the attention of Will Burch, a white man, Dick Boyd, colored, and others who were on a fishing trip. When they found the infant, ants and mosquitoes had bitten it in many places. After the sheriff was notified the child was brought to Athens and has been receiving the care of D. Gallagher and Miss Aylin, county nurse. It is thought that the baby is recovering from the shock and exposure.

The parties under arrest are poor and ignorant and the baby has practically no clothes or underwear. The charitably inclined might find a fruitful field for work there.—Limestone Democrat.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Friendship's Meaning

(Copyright, 1933, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Winifred Black

"ALONE, alone, and every step the mist thickens around me."

I wonder if they still read William Tell's soliloquy Friday afternoon in the eighth grade?

What a joke it was even to think of being alone—back there in the crowded hour in the crowded schoolroom!

Alone—with your father and your mother, and your big sisters and your little brother, always thinking of something you ought to do and telling you about it when you had the fairy book under your arm and knew of a perfectly fine branch in the old apple tree where you could sit for hours and never be seen?

Alone, with teacher at her desk and the monitors in the aisle and red-headed Julia Cavanaugh across the aisle swinging herself like the pendulum of the clock while she got her verbs—we never studied anything in those days—we never learned geography or grammar—not at all—we "got" them.

Alone, with Bertram Pell writing verses about you in the back of his history? Alone, with Harry Reid asking you if you liked slippery elm and would care to have him bring you a piece of it the next morning? Alone, with the whole town watching every step you took and smiling at every little mistake you made?

What queer things they did write in books—things about heroes and heroines, and kings with golden crowns and princesses with pearl diadems and people who were always alone and didn't like it!

A Question of Understanding

And then all at once you grew up, and there you were—absolutely alone, trying to learn to swim the deep, strong current of life—and you didn't know how and nobody could tell you, and everybody wondered at you, and the more you tried to explain or to learn, the more alone you felt.

And then you knew what the books meant—talking so much about people who were "alone."

And nobody knew you, and nobody trusted you, and nobody understood you—and nobody had ever had any experiences like yours in all the world, and you didn't believe you could stand it another hour—and then all at once your eyes opened and you saw somebody else trying to swim, too.

Somebody frightened and anxious and not swimming very well. Somebody young and inexperienced and trusting. Somebody—alone.

And then all at once your courage came back, and with it your hope and your faith, and you gave a cheery call of friendship to the other swimmer. And the first thing you knew you had a friend and were no longer—alone.

And nothing was ever quite so bad after that.

It's a wonderful thing when you learn that you're just one of a crowd, no matter who you are or what you're trying to do.

Just one of a thousand or a hundred thousand, and every one of them fighting a good deal of the same fight and having a good deal of the same worries—and somewhat the same joys, and just about the same hopes and ambitions.

You can stand almost anything when you realize that.

A Friendly Shelter

Did you ever notice a little child in a big room? How instinctively the child hunts for a cozy corner—behind the chairs, or under the table, or close in by the window seat—no big, open, lonesome spaces for him, thank you! For little fellows he's trying to make a little friendly shelter for himself, so the world won't seem quite so big.

That's what friendship is—a little friendly shelter.

How do people ever live at all without true friends? The world is full of them if you only look in the right place—true, faithful, loving, devoted friends. I wouldn't give one of them for a whole army of flatterers and pretenders, would you?

SHRINERS ENJOY BARBECUE TODAY

The Tennessee Valley Shrine Club enjoyed a barbecue at the yards of the J. D. Bush lumber company today at the noon hour. The barbecue was well attended by the local Shriners and their families and the supply of choice foods was unlimited.

The barbecue was a get-together affair and was to have been held at Bibb Springs on Wednesday, but owing to inclement weather conditions it was decided that the feed be postponed until today.

Postmaster W. E. Crawford, acted as master of ceremonies and showed a real aptitude in directing the preparation and service of the feast.

NEW YORK COLORSCOPES

By MARY MARGARET MCBRIDE

New York City.—People have strange ways of earning money in this town. Last week I met "three live ghosts"—real flesh and blood women who are writing books that other people will sign.

This profession is referred to as "ghosting", and, owing to the general craze for authorship, even though it be vicarious, affords a number of Manhattanites good livings.

A Jewish banker who is a golf fiend pays a young college man a good salary to follow him over the golf course reading French poetry while the financier makes his daily nine holes.

A pretty girl who dances exceptionally well is making most of her way through college fox trotting with an elderly man two afternoons a week at a fashionable hotel. The wife of the man chaperons the party and sits by watching until the afternoon frolic is over.

After years of scoffing at the indolent South, the superior North is now taking lessons in speed from it. Banks, factories and post offices here are learning that men and women work briskly to music and phonographs are being installed to speed up operations. This knowledge has for years been common property in the South where the negroes work on the railroads to the spirituals that men, hired for the purpose, sing. "Runnin' Wild", one of these spirituals, is even the favorite speed stimulant in the North on account of its rapid-fire tempo.

It may be a jazz age but a recent incident in the theatre world indicates that there is hope of better days to come. Broadway was astonished the other day when a local producing firm announced that "Blossom Time", based on the life and music of Schubert, would be produced simultaneously in two theatres. It was the first time in history that a play ever ran in two New York theatres at the same time and seems

World and His Wife Attend Singer's Debut at Sea

Mort Downey Has Unique Distinction on U. S. S. Leviathan

The first international debut of an operatic star took place recently when the Leviathan, biggest steamship in the world, made her maiden trip across the Atlantic.

The star who received the impressive introduction to his public was Mort Downey, young Irish tenor, who was discovered and presented by Paul Whiteman, famous orchestra leader.

The role of impresario is a new one for Whiteman, but his friends along Broadway who declare he "innovates" in his sleep were not in the least surprised that he disdained the ordinary way of launching a grand opera and, instead, instead of the Metropolitan, the magnificent sales of the Leviathan where, during the voyage, notables from every nation gathered.

Whiteman's orchestra furnished the accompaniment for the youthful singer and "Wonderful One", a waltz song, composed by the leader himself and considered by publishers the biggest musical hit of 1923, was what he sang.

"It was a greater thrill than I'd have gotten out of even the Metropolitan, though always before, that was the night of my ambition," Downey radioed friends after his opening night at sea.

WHAT THEY MEAN

- Philosophical etiquette—howing to the inevitable.—Boston Transcript.

KEELER, AT 80 GOES TO WORK

After fourteen years of enforced idleness because of ill health, J. H. Keeler, widely known Maryland citizen, has gained forty pounds at the age of eighty years and gone back to work every day. Mr. Keeler, who resides at 3706 Thirty-Second street, Mt. Rainier, Md., gives entire credit for his extraordinary rehabilitation to Tanlac.

"My stomach was in such terrible condition I could hardly digest a thing," said Mr. Keeler. It would swell to nearly twice its normal size and I would have frightful pains through my stomach and back. I felt so weak, dizzy and miserable, work was out of the question. In fact my friends gave me up on three or four different occasions.

"Five months ago I began taking Tanlac and improved from the very first bottle. I now eat anything on the table, have gained forty pounds, and am back at work every day. Actually I feel like a boy again. I would be ungrateful of me not to praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 97 million bottles sold.

FISH TALES

Scientists estimate there are 19,000 species of fish.

The male fur seal has a harem of from 30 to 100 females.

Fish lie with their heads upstream when resting at the bottom.

More varieties of fish are found in the Nile than in any other stream.

A female lobster has been known to lay as many as 100,000 eggs at one time.

Fish have cold blood, that is, blood taking the temperature of the surrounding water.

The devil fish varies in length from one inch to fifty feet, but very few of the longest specimens have been found.

Whether bass are food fish or game fish is a disputed question. In many sections of the country the bass is both a commercial food fish and a game fish.

Goldfish are the result of the elimination of the somber colors in a variety of carp by selective breeding begun by the Chinese and Japanese in the sixteenth century.

Late corn on land that will ordinarily produce twenty-five bushels or less, per acre will be greatly benefitted by an application of fifty to one hundred pounds nitrate of soda per acre. Money spent for nitrate should produce corn at a cost of from twenty five cents to forty cents a bushel. It can still be bought locally at a fair price. Make something of that late corn.

The boll weevil is at work in the cotton fields of Morgan County. The numbers present are not alarming, but the losses can be very substantially held down by destroying all punctured squares for another week or two.

Morgan county has two club boys at Auburn this week. They are Clyde Crawford of the Ryan's Cross Roads club and Joseph Barclift, of Lacey's Springs. These two boys are expected to give us an account of their trip through the papers soon after they return home.

An outing for the club boys, of Morgan County, is being planned for the near future. Will probably be for two days and include fishing and swimming. The dates have not been definitely set, but may be August 2nd and 3rd.

Blockade Raised IN RUHR DISTRICT

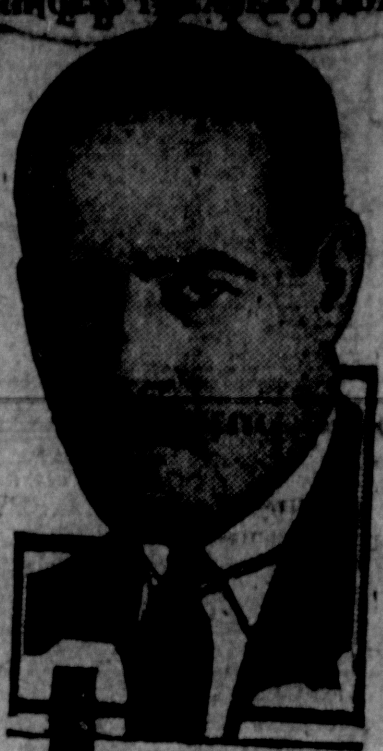

(By Associated Press) BERLIN, July 26.—It was reported from Dortmund, in the Ruhr, today that the authorities of occupation had announced the blockade of the occupied areas had been raised, dating from last night. No confirmation from authoritative sources was available.

DUESSELDORF, July 26.—The frontier, separating the Ruhr valley, from the rest of Germany opened at midnight.

The blockade on shipments from the Ruhr into occupied Germany became effective February 1, less than a month after the beginning of the Franco-Belgium occupation. It was not until July 1, however, that the frontiers of the Ruhr and the Rhineland were completely closed as one of the penalties imposed because of the Duisburg bomb explosion, which killed ten Belgium soldiers and injured two score other persons.

Announcement

THE STUDEBAKER CORPORATION OF AMERICA is pleased to announce to its customers, friends, and the public generally, its complete line of new

1924 Model Studebaker Cars

Avoiding the superlatives frequently used in automobile advertisements, the Corporation desires to faithfully state the facts concerning these cars and the reasons why the public should buy them.

THE CARS

In design, quality of materials, standard of workmanship, durability, refinements, performance, freedom from repairs, and price, the Studebaker 1924 Model Cars are distinctly the greatest intrinsic values the Corporation has ever offered.

Every improvement the safety and practicability of which have been verified by engineering tests is embodied in these new cars.

The Big-Six

THE BIG-SIX LINE comprises four models, mounted on the standard 126-inch chassis with 60 H. P. 3 3/8 x 5 inch motor: 7-passenger Touring Car - $1750 5-passenger Coupe - $2550 5-passenger Speedster - $1835 7-passenger Sedan - $2750 all prices f. o. b. factory

Refinements and a few minor mechanical changes have been made in the Big-Six, which has established an enviable record for five years. Our large production accounts for its low price. It is a car of the highest grade, comparable to the best.

The Special-Six

THE SPECIAL-SIX LINE comprises four models mounted on the standard 119-inch chassis with 50 H. P. 3 1/2 x 5 inch motor: 2-passenger Roadster - $1325 5-passenger Coupe - $1975 5-passenger Touring Car - $1350 5-passenger Sedan - $2050 all prices f. o. b. factory

Radiator, hood, cowl, and body changes have been made in the Special-Six, with minor mechanical changes and refinements in the chassis. The Special-Six has for five successive years added luster to the name STUDEBAKER. It is one of the most satisfactory and finest cars on the market. It is as good in every respect as the Big-Six, except that it is smaller, and costs less to produce, and therefore sells for less.

The Light-Six

THE LIGHT-SIX LINE comprises four models, mounted on the standard 112-inch chassis with 40 H. P. 3 1/2 x 4 1/2 inch motor: 3-passenger Roadster - $975 2-pass. Coupe-Roadster - $1225 5-passenger Touring Car - $995 5-passenger Sedan - $1550 all prices f. o. b. factory

No body or mechanical changes except refinements have been made in the Light-Six. Over 130,000 Light-Sixes have been produced in the new, modern $30,000,000 Studebaker plant at South Bend, Indiana, under most economical and almost ideal manufacturing conditions. In our judgment, it stands out as the greatest value and the closest approach to mechanical perfection in moderate priced cars yet produced.

THE REASONS WHY

With $90,000,000 of actual net assets and $45,000,000 invested in plants, Studebaker has ample physical facilities to manufacture most economically.

Studebaker's organization of manufacturing executives, engineers, metallurgists, chemists, inspectors, and skilled mechanics is second to none in the industry. The design of Studebaker cars and the workmanship upon them conform to the highest principles of engineering standards and mechanical practice known to the industry.

Best of Materials Used

Studebaker cars contain the finest known grades of iron, steel, aluminum, tires, electrical equipment, glass, bearings, etc. No better materials for automobile manufacture exist. Sheet aluminum has but one-third the tensile strength of sheet steel, and consequently, Studebaker uses sheet steel for its bodies.

By the manufacture of drop forgings, castings, stampings and the machining, assembling and finishing of motors, axles, frames, transmissions, bodies, tops, etc., and the consequent elimination of middlemen's profits, coupled with lower overhead factory costs per car arising from quantity production and low commercial expenses, Studebaker's costs are kept at an economically low point possible of attainment only by manufacturers with vast physical and financial resources.

Bodies Unexcelled

The bodies of Studebaker cars are not excelled in quality of materials and craftsmanship, by any cars on the market. The Coupe and Sedan closed bodies are magnificent examples of the coach builder's art.

Merit Wins

The sales of Studebaker cars for the past six years have shown each and every year a progressive increase. 81,880 cars were sold in the first six months of 1923 as against 60,053 for the same period last year. Only products of merit can make such growth.
